

Neptune in Pisces and Aries in 2025

Although Neptune entered Pisces in 2011, this is hardly a new story, bringing attention to it in 2025 is especially noteworthy because it will enter Aries on March 29/30, advance to 2 Aries 10 by July 4 due to turning retrograde, then re-enter Pisces on October 23, retreat to just 29 Pisces 22 by December 11, 2025 and then re-enter Aries on January 26/27, 2026.

Among the more significant factors in this process is that it will share the critical 29th and 1st degrees of Pisces and Aries respectively, along with Saturn. This is especially noteworthy because 29 Pisces is the Omega degree of the entire Zodiac and 0 Aries is the Alpha degree.

Also significant is that fact that the Lunar North Node while in Pisces will form conjunctions with both planets on February 7 and April 21, respectively. These dates and for some weeks leading up to them and after, noticeable outer synchronicities affecting the mass populations of the world will occur serving to dissolve various aspects of reality that have emerged as norms, forever.
